June 5th, 2020 - in 1913 Dutch psychiatrist and writer Frederik Willem van Eeden (1860-1932) coined the term lucid dream in an article entitled 'A Study of Dreams.' Some have suggested that the term is a misnomer because van Eeden was referring to a phenomenon more specific than a lucid dream. Van Eeden intended the term lucid dream to denote having insight, as in the phrase 'a lucid interval.'
